9 PLEAD GUILTY, SENTENCED ON MAIL CHARGES

Accused of Obstructing Carriers During Steel Strike

JAIL TERMS SET BY FEDERAL COURT

Defendants all from Warren, Youngstown and Massillon

(By Associated Press)
CLEVELAND, Dec. 20.—Nine men from Youngstown, Warren and Massillon pleaded guilty today before Federal Judge Paul Jones to indictments charging them with obstructing the mails during the steel strike last summer at Republic Steel and Youngstown Sheet and Tube Co. plants.

Sentences Imposed
One was sentenced to two months, two to 30 days and the others were given suspended sentences of 6 months.

They included Joseph M. Morton, Massillon, indicted on nine counts; Dominic Scarpine, Youngstown, and Sam Caputo, Warren, indicted on two counts each.

Those pleading on one count were: Mike Walker, Tony Crish, and Theodore Pictowski, Youngstown; Will Williams, Warren, and Leo Cox and Kenneth Steed, Massillon.

Judge Jones sentenced Morton to serve two months in jail, and sentenced Steed and Cox to 30 days. Suspended sentences of six months were given the other six men who were placed on probation.

The nine men were indicted by a federal grand jury here July 14.

Stopped Mail Carriers

Morton, president of the CIO union at Republic's Central Alloy plant at Massillon, was charged with stopping Raymond Geshwind, David G. Matthews and John Miller on 16 occasions between June 7 and June 16 when they attempted to deliver special delivery parcels to the Massillon plant.

Steed, president of the CIO chapter of Republic's Union Drawn Steel mill at Massillon, was charged with stopping the same special delivery messengers nine times between the same dates.

Cox, CIO picket captain, was charged with stopping Matthews and Geshwind six times. The other six men were charged with stopping delivery of parcels on at least one occasion.

Arrested On Order In Alliance Court

Sam Mancula of Salem was arrested Saturday by Patrolmen James Hassey and George Reash on an execution order issued by Clerk of Courts John Russell of Alliance.

Mancula was arrested by Alliance police in May, 1936, on a charge of driving an automobile while intoxicated. He was fined $150 and costs and sentenced to serve 30 days in jail by Municipal Judge Harry Moreland at Alliance.

He also was fined $5 and costs on a separate intoxication charge.

He appealed his case in common pleas court at Canton but the higher court sustained Judge Moreland's decision. Having been free under bond, the Salem motorist was re-arrested to serve out his 30 days.

Contest Entry Deadline Extended

An example of home lighting and decoration, showing how contours of the home have been followed in achieving an artistic effect.

Announcement was made today that the entry deadline for Salem's Christmas lighting contest, sponsored by the Salem Garden club and The Salem News has been extended until Christmas eve—Friday.

So much interest has been shown in the contest and so many inquiries have been received from various citizens within the last few days that those in charge of the contest decided, in order to permit everyone possible to participate, to extend the deadline, originally set for today, to Dec. 24.

The contest, the first of its kind here, already has attracted more entries than sponsors had originally expected. As a result of the extension of the deadline, there is no question the entry list will be swelled considerably.

Gen. Ludendorff, 72, Succumbs at Munich

MUNICH, Germany, Dec. 20.—General Erich Ludendorff, 72-year-old idol of the German army, died today.

The German World war commander apparently was recovering from an operation on an infected bladder but last night his heart failed.

Physicians made unavailing efforts to strengthen him with a blood transfusion.

Throughout his illness of more than three weeks, the aged warrior showed that had made him a symbol of Germany's army when he was chief of staff under Field Marshal Paul von Hindenburg during the World war.

BOMB REPORTS CONTRADICTED BY JAP OFFICER

Differs With Every Previous Statement, Even By Eye Witnesses

DENIES VESSELS FIRED ON PANAY

Admits, However, Probe Was Made At Long Range

(By Associated Press)
At least three major and contradictory versions of the Japanese bombardment of a United States gunboat in China served today further to confuse and to delay amicable settlement of the crisis created by the incident.

Two of the contradictory versions were by Japanese.

One, for the first time, set forth that Japanese soldiers were killed or injured by their own Japanese planes which bombed the Panay and three Standard Oil craft.

Said They Sought Wounded
The soldiers, said this version by the Japanese military attaché in Shanghai, were seeking wounded aboard one of the attacked craft.

The contradictions were concerned mainly with whether Japanese land forces, as well as the naval planes, fired on the Panay.

A Japanese foreign office official in Tokyo acknowledged that soldiers aboard river vessels fired on the Panay. The military attaché said they did not.

Which version Japan accepts may be an important factor in determining the final attitude of the state department in Washington in accepting apology for the attack.

The department now is awaiting replies to an original demand for amends and to a second communication based on information that Japanese troops were concerned.

An original Japanese expression of regret crossed the first American note after the attack on Dec. 12.

Harada's Version
Today's version by the Japanese military attaché in Shanghai, Major General Kumakichi Harada, who made his investigation from Nanking:

Three Japanese naval planes bombed the Panay and Standard Oil vessels.

WOMAN REPORTS RADIO STOLEN

Tells Police "Fortune Teller" Took It To Be Fixed—And Hasn't Returned

Mrs. Grace Miller complained to police Saturday that a woman who claimed to be an Indian fortune teller, apparently had stolen a radio owned by her mother, Mrs. Nancy Delaney, 612 Euclid st., after telling her fortunes on Dec. 7.

Paid $1 for her services, the woman offered to repair Mrs. Delaney's radio and departed with it. The Indian woman never returned, police were informed.

When the couple called at a South Lincoln ave. address where the Indian woman said she lived, Mrs. Miller and Mrs. Delaney discovered other persons had been referred to that address by the fortune teller.

Police believe she has left town.

Leetonia-Lisbon Bridge Completed

LISBON, Dec. 20.—County Engineer Robert Wheatley Saturday announced the completion of a new concrete bridge on the Leetonia-Lisbon road, replacing a condemned steel structure at a point near the Leetonia village limits.

The bridge, a 34-foot span, was started September 1 by Sutton and Stewart Contracting Co. of Shadyside. County commissioners awarded the firm the contract on a bid of $524,651. The bridge was opened to traffic Friday.

File 250 Claims

Columbiana county industrial workers during October filed 250 claims with the state industrial commission, although no fatalities were listed.

Two of the claims reported permanent partial disability. Forty-one of the claims showed over seven days lost time, and 26 others seven days or less. Of the total claims 181 were medical cases.

The time lost by county workers as the result of these mishaps was 2,224 days, a report of the commission said today.

Trade Pact To Be Kennedy's Main Problem

New Deal's "Trouble Shooter" Is Assigned To Post In Britain

Recent portrait of Joseph C. Kennedy. At his desk.

WASHINGTON, D. C. — When Joseph C. Kennedy, chief trouble-shooter for the administration, goes to London next month to take over the position of United States' ambassador to Great Britain, his primary concern will be to help in negotiating a trade treaty favorable to American commerce.

Those who are at all mystified by transfer of the capable present head of the maritime commission to a foreign post might consider that the administration may be attacking the problem of economic improvement from the more permanent and far-reaching angle of a lasting program of commercial cooperation with Great Britain.

Kennedy has been an invaluable and constant adviser to President Roosevelt in shaping New Deal policies relative to the stock market and big business. But his value as counselor in such affairs is less than what might be gained were he able to bring about an Anglo-American accord which would result in freer and more extensive exchange of goods between the United States and England.

Kennedy Well Qualified
One cannot challenge Kennedy's qualifications for such an assignment. As a successful big business man (he is a millionaire several times over), former bank president and ex-chairman of the securities and exchange commission, as well as an able and astute diplomat, Kennedy should prove a most capable man for this important post.

While Kennedy is a staunch New Dealer, he does not always agree with Roosevelt on methods to be used to reach the ends on which they are generally agreed. Unspoken and unshared to set himself up as a critic when he believes

Gas Fumes Make School Pupils Ill

WELLSVILLE, Dec. 20.—More than 80 pupils and five teachers recovered today from carbon monoxide fumes which seeped into the McDonald school here Friday.

Nine hundred children and 25 teachers were in the building when the pupils were overcome by fumes. Twenty-one boys and girls were made ill.

Fearing possible repetition of the disastrous school gas explosion, authorities ordered the building closed indefinitely.

Federal, city and school officials today started inspection of the 20-room building, erected in 1894.

Supt. S. E. Daw said the carbon monoxide fumes may have originated in a coal furnace in the basement.

Held On Mann Act

WASHINGTON, Dec. 20.—The federal bureau of investigation said today that three persons arrested in Alliance, O. Sunday on conspiring to violate the Mann act had been taken to Pittsburgh for arraignment before a United States commissioner.

The bureau named those held as Virginia Hines, 47, Charles Martin, 47, and Mae Benson, 33, and said that four others had been arrested on similar charges.

Stuart told police the side of his machine was damaged considerably.

GOVERNOR HAD URGED PAYMENT OF INSURANCE

Administrative Requirements Not Met, Says Statement

VARIED OBSTACLES ARE POINTED OUT

Ohio Commission, Board Declares, Couldn't Handle Load

(By Associated Press)
WASHINGTON, Dec. 20.—The social security board rejected today a proposal by Gov. Martin L. Davey to establish a temporary organization for payment of unemployment insurance benefits in Ohio.

Chairman A. J. Aitken, in a letter to the governor, said the plan did not "meet reasonable requirements of an administration calculated to insure the full payment of unemployment compensation when due."

Proposed Registration
Governor Davey had proposed statewide registration of the unemployed and establishment of a temporary organization under the state unemployment compensation commission.

Previously he requested the board to approve payment of benefits on January 1, a year sooner than provided by state law. Attorney General Cummings held, however, Ohio had not met a requirement that states must collect payroll taxes for two years before beginning payments.

The board agreed to recommend amendment of the federal law to reduce the period to one year, but said in a statement accompanying the letter to Davey that "even if existing legal obstacles to the payment of unemployment compensation benefits a year earlier than originally contemplated in the Ohio act could be removed, the method after a satisfactory plan had been prepared, Governor Davey, at a conference with the board here recently, said he believed payment could be made within two or three months."

Differ On Time
The board said it would be administratively impossible to begin payments sooner than six months after a satisfactory plan had been prepared. Governor Davey, at a conference with the board here recently, said he believed payment could be made within two or three months.

"The Ohio compensation commission," the board continued, "can not be expected to handle this additional load at the present time. The commission is at present not up to date in recording the reports of employers, who have paid their contributions, and has not yet taken steps to collect from thousands of delinquent employers."

"This statement is not intended as a criticism of the Ohio unemployment compensation commission. The commission has been confronted with the tremendous task of creating and putting into operation what amounts to a statewide insurance organization, and in a very short space of time, the statement is intended merely to illustrate the unpreparedness of the existing unemployment compensation agency to cope with the much larger and more difficult task of paying benefits promptly and fully in a field that is almost unexplored in this country."

RESULTS EXPECTED

Whether or not Glenn Frank gets results in his new job as director and spokesman for the Republican party's newly created policy committee depends on two things.

First, it depends on the job—whether or not it can be established on a sufficiently strong foundation of agreement within the party and support from outside the party to make it effectual.

Republicans feel, certainly with sound reason, there is need for a stronger opposition to the new deal coalition which now controls the national government and that to become a stronger opposition they must achieve unity. Hence the policy committee.

Second, the job depends on Mr. Frank, himself, and here there is little room for doubt. The former president of the University of Wisconsin is a keen student of affairs and a man of well defined political principles. He is a liberal of the classical school of liberalism, as contrasted to the experimental, free spending liberals of the new deal.

Not the least of his qualifications is his speaking ability. Besides having something to say, he is able to say it, clearly and convincingly. If anything, he is a better elocutionist than Mr. Roosevelt, himself, who is as well known for how he says things as for what he has to say.

It is too soon to be sure what radio is going to mean to politics, both here and abroad, but not too soon to be sure that a political party without a voice as good as the voice of its opponent is under a heavy handicap.

SECOND HELPINGS

L. J. Taber's farm plan won't get much attention because there's no subsidy connected with it. It's a good plan, though.

There's nothing to it, except encouraging Americans to eat more. "America's power to consume," says Mr. Taber, master of the National grange, "has never been developed but partially."

Therefore, if farmers by cooperative action could develop the American appetite, demand for farm products would be greater. Instead of cutting down production to hold up prices, farmers would be increasing production to keep up with prices.

This is probably too simple to be practical. It takes too much for granted, because without cooperation it wouldn't work, and farmers never have been known to cooperate voluntarily—any more than industrialists.

The plan does show, though, the ridiculous side of scarcity schemes in an age of mass production—even an age when mass production doesn't always work the way it's supposed to work. For Mr. Taber's plan to help farmers by increasing demand for farm products—pure mass production theory—is so different from the usual subsidy schemes that politicians will be afraid to discuss it for fear of being called radical and visionary.

THE THING THAT HURTS

It's not renunciation of her citizenship that hurts, nor is it the fact an American heiress enjoying a second generation fortune should be so tactless as to turn up her nose at her own countrymen.

It's the fact that several million fine, upstanding American boys willing to work hard and wait for breaks failed to make good that throws the hooks into the nation's pride.

Barbara Hutton chose a Russian prince, one of a family which made a good thing of marrying wealthy American girls, for her first husband. She chose a Danish count for her second.

When she renounced her citizenship the other day and returned to Denmark, her leave-taking was soured by a sitdown strike of 5 & 10 cent store employees who work for the chain which produced her fortune. It's pleasant to believe that among them were a few young men who had they been up on their toes, might have married the boss's daughter and averted all this hard feeling.

ALMOST PERFECT

Skeptics now can be forgiven for doubting that human ingenuity in designing and operating a prison can prove so much greater than human ingenuity in escaping from a prison that escape is absolutely impossible.

Alcatraz is supposed to be the perfect prison. Its reputation has done a lot to tame down the confidence of hardened criminals in their jail breaking prowess. Nevertheless, two men have escaped by taking advantage of a dense fog, which handicapped guards.

Fortunately, no damage has been done to the reputation of Alcatraz. Its designers and officials still get credit for doing an almost perfect job. But they were, alas, dealing with human beings, and it is a lamented fact that some of the most resourceful and daring human beings are criminals.

THE STARS SAY

For Tuesday, December 21

Social and confidential matters are uppermost in this day's activities, according to the prevailing planetary directions. There may be some pleasurable excitement in this connection, with secret plans possibly in relation to gifts or social, domestic or affectional functions. Work and business seem to be negligible quantities.

Those whose birthday it is may find their work, employment and serious matters rather irksome, but should find excitement and interest in social, artistic, romantic or domestic concerns.

A child born on this day may have a very happy and sociable disposition, with leanings toward art, literature, social or humanitarian vocations rather than the more commonplace. It may be gifted in poetry, music or mystery writings.

O. O. MCINTYRE

NEW YORK DAY BY DAY

NEW YORK, Dec. 20—Diary: A spitting of snow and nip in the air. And came a crate of apples from Lucius Beebe's orchards and a brave letter from John T. McCutcheon. So for a turn of Tudor City before squaring off to a platter of Col. Frank Jones' Kentucky sausage and fried apple rings.

Then to see some of Fred Detweiler's fine canvases and came upon the new Congressman from our district, Bruce Barton, whose greeting was "Good afternoon, constituent!" And along the highway passed George Arliss, the play actor, mincing along in that stooped-over walk of his.

Dined at Lindy's on a meat ball soup, watching the crowds, in especial Harry Richman, who seemed utterly woe-begone with life's hanky-panky. And of all the town's restaurants Lindy's has most vigour and quality called human interest. To bed, re-reading some short tales by Kipling.

It used to be the most beautiful girls in town could be found at the glove counters of large department stores. Nobody knew precisely why. But today many outstanding beauties are the elevator operators in the same establishments. Chicago's Marshall Field's was first to exploit them in their men's department. Dorothy Lamour was once one. What with all the good lookers, the monogled lady in the book department at Macy's and the several stunning redheads at Wanamaker's, prowling around a department store is becoming increasingly interesting day by day.

The Dining in Old New York exhibit at the Museum of the City of New York rates a visit. Especially to see the photograph of the famous horseback dinner at old Sherry's, given by the late C. K. G. Billings. The photo shows the diners in the saddle and formed into a circle around the festal board. About that time, too, all the Sunday supplements were packed with pictures of Pittsburgh millionaires and the Broadway chorus girls depicting those mad scenes none of which was complete without the inescapable slipper filled with Mumm's extra dry. The stunt dinners are no longer given in public restaurants because of the fear of tabloid backfire. Such diodes are staged in the pent houses.

Among metropolitan evanishments is the Greek hand-pull candy kitchen with the window display of a giant mustachioed fellow looping enormous ropes of candy over a huge hook. There used to be one up a side street near the Globe, and its best customer was Charles Dillingham. Also one near the stage entrance of the Winter Garden. Always near large theatres, their best patronage was among matinee goers.

Some of my happiest hours were spent watching the Saturday matinee of vaudeville at the old Columbia in Cincinnati. My seat was a 35-center in the first row of the balcony and I was fortified with a tencent bar of Mullan's taffy. Taffy and vaudeville! Many acts I knew by heart, as did most regulars. It was at the Columbia Elbard Hubbard made his only and heart-breaking vaudeville appearance. After his first few lines, a gentle razzing started in the gallery and grew into such a demonstration that Hubbard in bewilderment fled not only from the theatre, but took the next train out of town. It was the first and only time I had ever seen such cruelty in the theatre and most of us who loved vaudeville left the playhouse a bit sheep-faced and ashamed. Next to the Hubbard incident, the coolest reception in the theatre was at old Hammerstein's, following the appearance of a couple of high-jumping ladies billed, after pistolling the millionaire W. E. D. Stokes, as The Shooting Showgirls. They walked off in dead silence—not a single handclap.

Bagatelles: Doug Fairbanks, Jr. has become a pipe enthusiast . . . William Powell was once Kansas City's crack necktie salesman . . . Allan Dwan was a star fullback at Notre Dame . . . Brock Pemberton holds the Rialto record for attendance at first nights . . . Fred C. Kelly's address is The Mortgages, Peninsula, Ohio.

Add juvenile let-downs: The day you, barefoot, were kicking up dust in the roadway, riding a broomstick horse and the banker's son, your age, flashed by in a new Shetland-drawn pony cart.

NEURALGIA

THIS IS the season when people have neuralgia. Like neuritis, arthritis and chronic rheumatism, it makes its presence known in damp and bad weather.

What we call neuralgia is sometimes no more than a vague and annoying feeling of discomfort. As the name indicates, it is a pain in a nerve. One or more nerves may be involved, but usually it is confined to one.

There is always congestion of the affected nerve. Many theories have been advanced concerning neuralgia and its actual causes. Frequently it is associated with some center or focus of infection within the body.

Those who have repeated colds, tonsillitis and nasal neuralgia pain. At times it accompanies some constitutional disorder. Elderly persons are more likely to have it than those in the prime of life.

Strange as it may seem, no actual swelling, deformity or abnormality can be detected. The sufferer complains of nothing more than pain. This may be of a throbbing nature and sometimes is so severe as to require the administration of an opiate.

Occurs Anywhere

The pain is found along the course of a nerve, usually in the face, head, neck or shoulder. But it may occur anywhere in the body.

In what I have said, it is plain that at times it may be difficult to distinguish severe neuralgia from some form of neuritis, which is the name given inflammation of a nerve. The latter is caused by an infection. Neuralgia must be distinguished from arthritis which has pain associated with a joint. Rheumatism is pain associated with a muscle.

Because of this confusion, it is always best to consult with a doctor. If the pain persists, do not trust to self-diagnosis and self-treatment. Let your physician first determine all the facts of the case so that the needed treatment can be outlined. What may be beneficial in the relief of an attack of arthritis may be of little or no aid in controlling neuralgia.

The occurrence of any pain, regardless of how mild or trivial it may seem, is a warning sign given by Mother Nature. Neglect may prove dangerous because it may be the forerunner of something, a disease which, if neglected, may run into an incurable form.

Randolph Scott in a scene from "High, Wide and Handsome" at the State tonight.

"Judge Priest," starring the late Will Rogers in the role of the famous southern jurist, drawing and quick-witted, who straightens out the tangled lives of his townspeople, shows at the State Tuesday and Wednesday.

In the cast are Rochelle Hudson, Tom Brown, Anita Louise and Stepin Fetchit. The Irvin S. Cobb story is delightfully screened and, like all Will Rogers pictures, warmly amusing with its homely philosophy and characterizations.

The Irene Dunne-Randolph Scott film, "High, Wide and Handsome," a story of the early finding of oil in Pennsylvania and the founding of the oil industry there, concludes tonight at the State.

Gen. Coxey, 83, Still Fighting, But This Time For a New Cause

(United Press) MASSILLON.—With perhaps less national significance than his famous "March on Washington," but with the same objectives in mind, "General" Jacob S. Coxey at 83 is taking the local spotlight in a fight to "save Massillonans $804,000."

The "general," still a shrewd economist despite his advanced age, has begun circulation of a petition to prevent the Ohio Public Service Co. from putting into effect a 10-year contract, granted by city council and signed by Mayor Henry Krier.

Coxey, whose object for leading hundreds of unemployed to the nation's capital was to seek recognition of his plan to distribute $500,000,000 to furnish work for 4,000,000 idle men in 1894, began his utility fight much in the same manner as he organized his famous march.

After a careful study of the contract, he contended that under the new rates and a monthly "service charge" of $1, fuel users would pay over a period of 10 years $804,000 in excess of the regular energy charge.

His first step was to file a certified copy of the contract and a facsimile of his petition with City Auditor Lewis M. Holcomb. The petition had been approved by the secretary of state.

Coxey contended that the Pacific Gas & Electric company case before the U. S. Supreme Court, in which the Federal power commission has intervened, seeking a change in the method of fixing utility rates, probably would be decided in favor of the commission.

Massillon could not enjoy the resultant rate reductions until 1947 were the contract in effect, he argued.

To win his fight, Coxey must ob-

ROBOTS CALLED WORLD'S RULER

Professor Says Nations Already Under Power Of Machinery

(United Press) PITTSBURGH.—Futuristic novels and fiction magazines often have pictured a world ruled by robots, but Dr. William F. Ogburn of the University of Chicago believes the world already is under the power of the machines it has invented.

He explained the theory recently in an address to a joint meeting of several Pittsburgh organizations.

Machines, he said, are causing centralization of government at Washington. Rapid transportation and communication are the reasons.

"Automobiles have done more to break down states' rights than the Civil war," Dr. Ogburn said, "and there has been a spiritual breakdown of county government all over the country."

Another influence of machinery is seen by Ogburn in the character of national government. He said that various industrial and special interest groups are sending representatives to the "third house" (lobbyists), which eventually will lead to weakening of legislative government and strengthening of administrative government.

"The character of the home has been completely changed in the past half century," he said. "Formerly, 90 per cent of all the families needs were produced in the household, but steam power has changed that. It is more economical to manufacture articles in factories."

"Now, the home is little more than a parking place. Often it is nothing more than a few rooms over a garage."

Machines just over the horizon are going to produce a still greater change, Dr. Ogburn said. Television will bring the world indoors; cheapening of air-conditioning methods might bring a general movement to the tropics, where warm air could be cooled for the house; devices such as the "electric eye"—which can sort cans, grade tobacco, and even count money—are likely to take the place of many workers.

To compensate for those losses of jobs, he said, business' best bet is to exploit the new industries.

Highly Developed Power Plant Keeps Ford In Front Rank Of Producers

ITS V-8 ENGINE GETS APPROVAL OF GOVERNMENT

Production Record of 4,000 Units a Day Is Established by Company

The man who is interested in buying an automobile hears a lot about the merits of various engines but it is possible there are facts concerning the Ford Motor Co. products that are not known to many.

The Ford V-8 motor is the only government approved airplane motor, according to the E. L. Grate Co. It is the same motor that is used in all Ford automobiles, a "standard Ford assembly"; the only power plant offering aviation bi-motored dependability in a single-motored airplane regardless of price.

The marvelous performance of this engine is a revelation in acceleration, flexibility, smoothness and economy.

Years of Building
This power plant is the result of years of experimentation gained by building over 25,000,000 Ford motors. Little wonder no other manufacturer has developed an engine that has been approved by the government.

Other outstanding users are a matter of public record. To quote from the Detroit Times:

"In one of the most courageous driving performances ever seen on the Detroit river, M. J. Cooper of Louisville survived a spectacular crash in which brother almost killed brother, to win the feature speedboat event of opening day events in the annual Gold Cup regatta."

This boat was powered with a "standard Ford assembly" Ford V-8 engine just like the ones in all Ford automobiles.

When you consider the purchase of an automobile, stop to consider these facts and remember the motor is the heart in any automobile regardless of price.

Production at the Ford Motor company's Rouge river plant at Dearborn, Mich., and assembly plants throughout the United States has passed a high peak of 4,000 eight-cylinder cars and trucks daily.

Why Are They Making Them?
A simple analysis of this statement alone should prove one of Ford's best selling points.

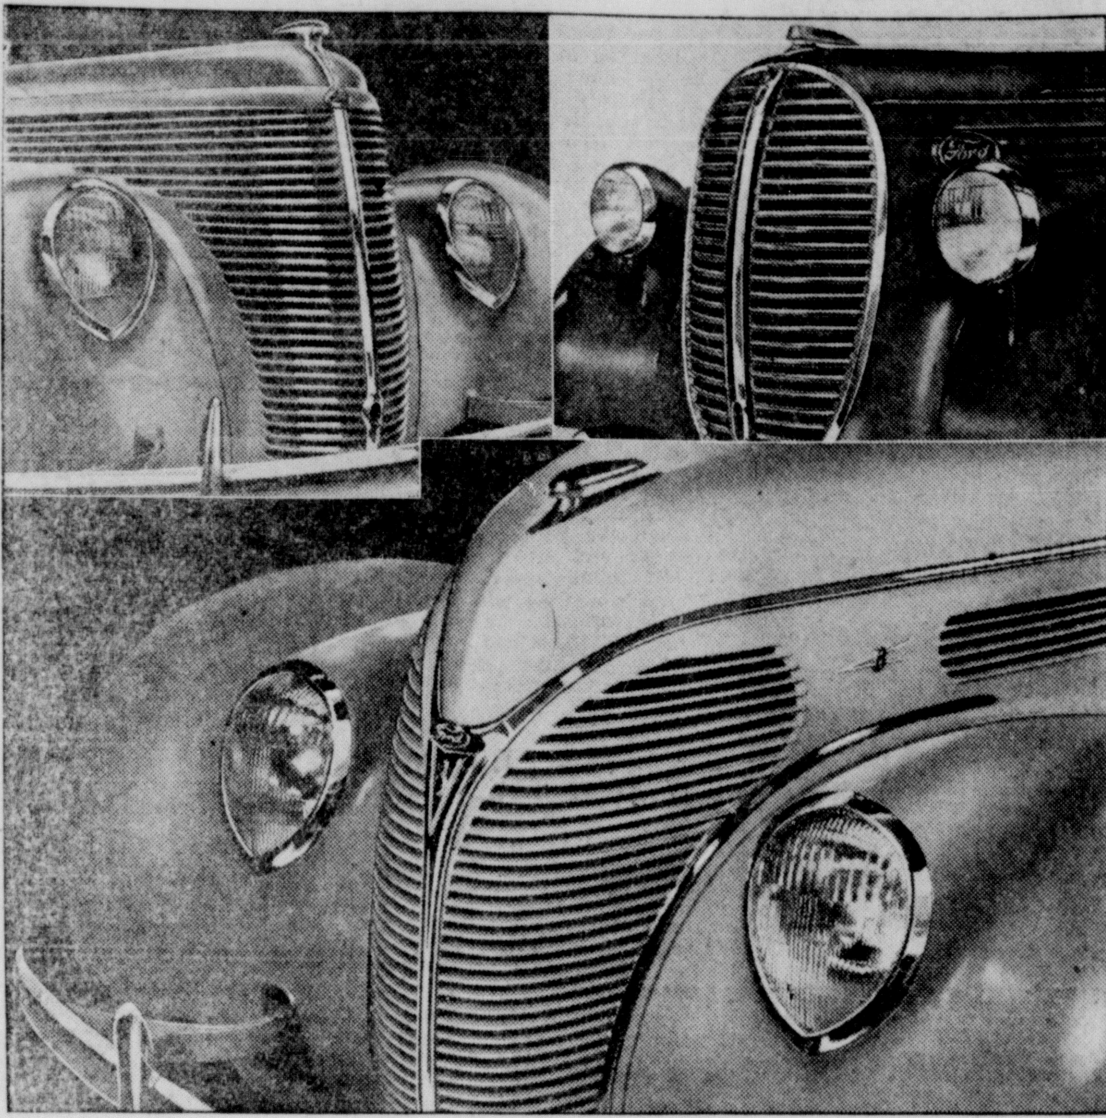

A total of 4,000 automobiles every day, almost 120,000 a month.

Automobile users all over the world are buying Fords. And more people every day are buying Fords because production is increasing. Ford officials assert it will not be long before the 4,000-a-day figure is left behind and a new record established.

Fords, then, must be doing pretty much what people want them to do in the way of both performance and economy, and that, after all, explains without the use of too many words, just why new production records are being established.

Attractive New Fords Bring Much Favorable Comment

FRONT end views of the three units of the Ford V-8 line for 1938 are pictured above. At top, left, is the standard Ford V-8 car, designed for owners to whom economy is paramount. Below, the deluxe Ford

V-8, stylish sister of the standard car. The standard Ford, in three body types, is available with either the 85 or 60 horsepower V-8 engine, the de luxe car, in eight body types, with only the 85. Both cars have the same Ford V-8 chassis. Top right, the new "one-tonner," newest of the Ford group of trucks and commercial cars. Others are the 112-inch commercial cars and 134 and 157-inch stake trucks.

FORD'S OUTPUT IS 4,000 DAILY

Rate of Production Increasing Rapidly; still higher Mark Is Forecast

DEARBORN. — Production of Ford V-type 8-cylinder cars and trucks at the Ford Rouge plant here and assembly branches throughout the United States, Friday, passed the 4,000-a-day mark, it was announced at the home office of the Ford Motor Co.

The greater part of current output is represented by standard line cars, with either 60 or 85 horsepower V-8 engines, in order to fill the requirements for his model.

Production of de luxe model cars is being increased as rapidly as possible in order to meet the heavy demand resulting from the national introduction of the cars at the dealer shows throughout the country last week.

While manufacture of parts at the Rouge plant was carried on throughout the autumn, assembly of the two 1938 lines did not get under way until mid-November. The rate of production has increased steadily since that time and is expected to be increased still more in the future.

Paris Cleaners Keep Ahead of New Developments in Dry Cleaning Field

It's reasonable to assume that no man in business gets perfect results always but the business man who day-by-day honestly strives to give better service or greater value is bound to become the recognized leader in his particular field.

In the dry cleaning field, as in many others, there are many opportunities to cut costs and, consequently, increase profits—always at the expense of the customer, in the long run.

There are few people versed sufficiently in the intricacies of the dry cleaning business to be able to discern immediately whether a garment, returned to them, has been properly cleaned.

A cleaning plant, to do correct work, represents an investment of several thousand dollars. It's impossible to do a first class job without the proper equipment.

The Paris Cleaners, on the Benton rd., have equipment as modern as money can buy. And Manager L. C. Price spends many hours of his time searching out ways of doing better work and is constantly checking with leading cleaners throughout the country in his quest for improved methods.

Such an establishment is a credit to any community. It issues a standing invitation to any member of the family to visit the plant and see what goes on in a really progressive business. It will pay anyone to inform themselves as to just how they spend their money for dry cleaning.

SAN FRANCISCO—Pacific passenger lines do not anticipate that the present Sino-Japanese hostilities will prevent the holding of the 1940 Olympics at Tokyo. They have just decided to offer a 15 per cent reduction on single passage to Japan and 10 per cent on round trip tickets.

ART'S PREPARE FOR YULE RUSH

Large Stocks Available for Buying This Week; Service Also Is Stressed

Merchants today are preparing for the Christmas week rush, with the arrival of Santa Claus only five days away.

Crowds which have thronged stores the last few days are expected to be only the forerunners of much larger throngs this week.

Art, the Jeweler, is making preparations for accommodating all of his patrons this week, no matter how large the crowds. Every facility is being extended to provide not only wanted articles in the gift line, but competent and speedy service as well.

Art, the Jeweler, is carrying an extraordinary large stock of Christmas articles which, however, will prove their value and utility long after the holidays are gone.

Sinclair Outlines Facts To Prove Frequent Oil Changes Are Beneficial

Would you attempt to make a cup of fresh coffee without first removing the old coffee grounds. Would you build a fire in your furnace, and expect it to function, without removing the old ashes and cinders regularly?

Now coffee and ashes themselves have nothing particularly in common with automobiles, but it is a peculiar fact that frequently an individual who will go to great lengths to produce cup of coffee worth penny or two or chap who leaves no stone (or ashes as the case may be) unturned to keep his fire literally in the pink of condition, will wantonly disregard the state of his automobile, a piece of equipment for utility and comfort worth, on the average, $1,000.

He will fill his car's crankcase with oil and then promptly forget all about it. The oil, to be sure, is there after 1,000 or 1,500 miles but by this time it's pretty much like the old coffee grounds—and the ashes that have given their best.

Change Oil Often
To get the best and most economical motor performance the crankcase oil should be changed every 500 miles in cars operated in temperatures of 10 degrees F or below.

low, which, of course, means winter driving.

The Sinclair Oil Co., tells you why:

Water contamination — it is a fact, not commonly known, that more than a gallon of water is produced in an engine by the burning of one gallon of gasoline. This water is ordinarily in the form of vapor or steam; but, when the jacket-water temperatures are low, some of this water condenses and gets into the crankcase.

This condition is accentuated by low air temperatures and becomes extremely rapid in sub-zero weather. It is particularly acute when short runs and frequent starts are necessary, as is the case with cars used by physicians, inspectors and salesmen. The same applies to motorists who use their cars only for going to and from work.

Under these conditions, while the jacket water temperatures may reach a normal range, the crankcase remains cold and water in it is not driven off by evaporation.

For winter operation, this accumulation of water is the major factor in oil deterioration, because, almost invariably, it mixes with the oil to form a thick, mayonnaise-like emulsion. Leakage of anti-freeze solution from the cooling system into the engine greatly accentuates the formation of emulsions. These often interfere with normal lubrication, leading to disastrous results.

Wearing Surfaces Ruined
During the cold period of every winter, a large number of cases are encountered in which bearings, pistons and cylinder walls are ruined because the lubricating systems have become clogged by emulsions. Serious damage also has occurred from water freezing in crankcases when cars are left standing exposed to low temperatures.

Winter operating conditions also tend to promote dilution of crankcase oil by unvaporized fuel. In intermittent service, automatic chokes may remain in operation during the entire run so that rich mixtures are fed to the engine, thereby causing excessive dilution.

The efficiency of electrical systems is always lower in cold weather. Battery output is much reduced, resulting in slower cranking. Ignition efficiency is impaired by decreased battery voltage and by fouled or incorrectly adjusted spark plugs, thus causing incomplete combustion and frequent misfiring. Such failures of the electrical system to function at high efficiency will result in unburned fuel working into the crankcase to cause excessive dilution of the lubricating oil.

Opportunities to buy to advantage are found daily in The News classified adv. columns.

TRADE PROBLEM UP TO KENNEDY

New Deal Trouble Shooter Is Assigned To Britain

criticism necessary, Kennedy has established himself as one of the most important and trusted of that inner circle of advisers to the president. He has gained the confidence of labor by his abrupt actions as head of the maritime commission, and it is probable that the president and he do not see eye to eye on this.

Two other factors probably figured in appointment of Kennedy as ambassador to the Court of St. James. Delicate considerations aroused by the Japanese bombing of American ships and similar incidents make it imperative that the best possible man represent the United States in conference with
mentous times. It is also probable that had Kennedy not been given the British ambassadorship, he would have been last to the administration since he was expected to retire following his emergency tenure with the maritime commission, a job he is due to finish soon.
It is no secret that he has desired to be secretary of the treasury, but the president prefers to be "his own secretary of the treasury."

Bank President at 26
Kennedy's political achievement have been more than equaled by his success in private life. The son of a wealthy Boston Irish politician and business man, Kennedy worked his way through Harvard and had for his first job that of Massachusetts state bank examiner. Within five years, when only 26, he was president of one of the more important banks in the state.

From there he went into business for himself, refinanced and made a success of a bankrupt motion picture concern, headed a big vaude-

Chicago Hospital Outstanding

View of main hospital

Edward Hines, Sr.

Disabled veterans

Completion of another year of service by the huge Edward Hines, Jr. hospital in Chicago calls attention to the outstanding record of this institution devoted to caring for disabled American veterans. It was dedicated in 1921 in honor of Edward Hines, Jr., a lieutenant killed in action and the son of a prominent Chicago industrialist whose generosity made the project possible. The outlay is now valued in excess of $15,000,000 and comprises 28 buildings with accommodations for 1,750 patients.

Enrollments Close

LISBON, Dec. 20.—CCC veteran enlistments will be closed during January, Wallace King, veterans' service representative stated Saturday.

Lack of vacancies in the veterans' corps accounted for the action, Mr. King said. Applications will be received and considered for future enrollment during the month.

BOMB REPORTS CONTRADICTED

Jap Attache Differs With Previous Statements Of Survivors

Oil vessels, some distance north of Nanking. The Panay replied with anti-aircraft. Three cannon shot were fired from the warship at a Japanese army unit ashore. The Japanese unit did not reply. One small boat, with persons fleeing the Panay and other craft, was judged to be carrying enemy troops. Japanese fired on it and captured the craft. Only when one of the ships neared shore did Japanese ascertain they were American. Japanese boarded one merchant vessel and the Panay to determine if more injured remained aboard; meantime the bombing planes returned and renewed attack, during which Japanese soldiers were killed or injured.

From the Japanese foreign office spokesman: Japanese surface craft apparently did fire on the Panay and the important point to determine was whether Japanese or the Panay fired first.

From The Panay

From those aboard the Panay and the basis of some reports to Washington: The Panay and Standard vessels were anchored and should have been visible to Japanese army units ashore. The Panay did not fire at troops ashore. The Panay, abandoned after aerial bombardment, was machine-gunned by Japanese army boats. While the Panay dispute held greatest importance to American, the far eastern conflict centered today in the direction of checking and Anwei provinces.

Hero of Bombing

Lieut. John W. Geist (above), although severely injured when the Japanese fliers bombed and machine-gunned the gunboat Panay, was the outstanding hero of the tragedy, according to Lieut. Com. Hughes, the Panay's skipper.

Reveals How Seal Sale Cash Is Spent

The National Tuberculosis Association reports that from the $4,982,696.96 raised from the sale of the Christmas seals in 1936 through-out the United States, the money was spent for the following items: Health education 23 per cent of total funds, seal sale 20 per cent, administration 12 per cent, institutions 11 per cent, nursing 9 per cent, clinics 9 per cent, research 2 per cent, miscellaneous 14 per cent. These figures are approximate. The complete report gives a detailed analysis of many items not here listed.

Columbiana County Public Health league raised $1,900 in 1936. This sum was spent in approximately the following percentages: Fifteen per cent to Ohio Public Health association, 5 per cent to National Tuberculosis association, 25 per cent for X-rays, 10 per cent for medical services and supplies, 10 per cent for seal sale, 15 per cent health education, 10 per cent administration, 3 per cent traveling, 5 per cent miscellaneous.

The Health league states "Every effort is made to make the Christmas seal sale dollars go as far as possible. Every dollar spent in tuberculosis prevention means many dollars saved in cure. It has been conservatively estimated that tuberculosis costs Columbiana county $100,000 yearly in hospital expenses, relief costs and loss in wages."

FRICK UPHOLDS DEAD BALL FOR NATIONAL LOOP

Claims Live Ball Takes Away True Value of Base Hits

By GAYLE TALBOT
NEW YORK, Dec. 20.—If there's any truth in what the National league barstiffs are saying these winter days, the American league should come clean next season and add a new column to its official box scores—"uncared hits."

After you have heard President Ford Frick delineate the delights of the National circuit's drowsy new ball, it becomes increasingly clear that in this way alone could the American league waddle alone for their stubborn refusal to scrap the old bump-jumping pellet that the DiMaggios and the Greenbergs love to belt about.

Frick puts the issue so squarely, so honestly, that the stoniest hearted American league magnate is likely to break down completely and bewail his delay in seeing the light. But they had their chance at the recent Chicago meeting, and now it's too late.

"What we in the National league are after is true values," admitted Frick in describing the new sphere, which is sewed with five strands as opposed to the rollicksome four-strander. "That's our main aim, no matter which side wins the game or the series or the pennant—truly played contests every day all season."

There! the American league can be as stubborn as it likes and keep on playing with its hopped-up horseshoe and knocking twilight zone home runs' rackets. But it can't make light of a statement as solemn and earnest as that one. And that isn't all Frick says, by any means.

"Our aim is to do away with those half-hits which sometimes play a big part in a ball game," he continued. "What we are trying to eliminate is the thing that happens when a batter hits only a piece of the ball instead of connecting squarely."

"Sometimes it's one of those lazy bouncers that get to the outfield because of the smoothness of the ball won't let the infield grass or clay take hold of it. Sometimes it's a pop fly just out of an infielder's reach. Sometimes it's even a home run in parks where the stands or fences are not too far from home plate. The National league ball won't travel that fast or that far when it is only half-hit."

"Squaring hit drives will have just as good chance to be homers as with the old ball. The only change the new ball will make in National league home run statistics is the elimination of fluky homers."

Vic Ghezzi Takes Lead In Tourney

NASSAU, Bahamas, Dec. 20.—Victor Ghezzi, towering golf professional from Deal, N. J., strode into the final round of the $3,500 Nassau open today with a two-stroke lead on the field after having rocketed from 19th place with a pair of 66's.

Ghezzi's almost flawless rounds, each four below par, gave him a commanding 54-hole position at 204, two shots ahead of the first-day pace-setter, Sam Snead of White Sulphur Springs, W. Va.

Snead, who faded in the $10,000 Miami Biltmore open last week after leading through the first two rounds, added a pair of solid par 70's to his opening 66 but his putts weren't dropping for birds.

Denny Shute, P. G. A. champion, Paul Runyan of White Plains, N. Y., and Jack Groat of Hershey, Pa., began the last drive trailing by five shots.

BOWLING RESULTS

The Salem Eagles know now how it feels to really take a licking. They learned this yesterday when they fell before the strong Youngstown Golden Age team, 3183 to 2597.

The Eagles defeated the Youngstown five, 2749 to 2537, at the Masonic temple alley Saturday night, but whatever glory they reaped out of this victory was stolen from them in the return match at Youngstown yesterday.

The 3183 score the Golden Age team rolled against the Eagles is the highest that has been made in a match involving a Salem team this season.

Leading the Youngstown team to its splendid score were Schuster with 713, George Vallos with 675 and Joe Budak with 652.

Merle (Red) White led the Eagles to their win over the Golden Agers Saturday night, hitting 587 on games of 210, 201 and 176.

Three Youngstown teams, two men's and one ladies', bowling at the Grate Recreation alleys Saturday night went down to defeat before Salem teams.

The Salem Recreation Class A kiegler defeated the Warren Pastime alley team of Youngstown, 2736 to 2637. The Sinclairs defeated Lustig Shoes of the Steel City, 2583 to 2522, and Abe's A. A. A. ladies defeated the Youngstown Horrus Lunch ladies, 2211 to 2109.

Ralph Phillips turned in a 235 single game and a 572 series to lead the Grate team to its victory. Clyde Miller was high for the Sinclairs in their win with 591 and Mrs. Frieda Orr led the Salem ladies team with a 520 series, including a 202 single game.

The Salem Eagles ladies were not as fortunate as the men Saturday night and lost out to the American Restaurant of Youngstown, 1891 to 2102.

PURDUE FEARED IN BIG 10 LOOP

Boilermakers Classified As One of Nation's Best Quintets

By EARL HILLIGAN
CHICAGO, Dec. 20.—A "menacing" shadow lay across the Big Ten basketball horizon today—cast by those high scoring Boilermakers of Purdue.

Annually one of the "feared" teams in the Western conference court title race, Ward Lambert's 1937-38 aggregation, in four warm-up games, has stamped itself as one of the most powerful offensive quintets ever to come out of Lafayette, Ind.

Purdue takes on Loyola of Chicago here tonight and as a result of its 60 to 50 win Saturday night over the strong DePaul university team, will be heavy favorite to continue in the undefeated ranks.

Jewell Young, who last season set an all-time scoring record for the Big Ten, caged eight field goals against DePaul. Johnny Sines, another speedy forward, bagged five.

In four games the Boilermakers have scored 230 points, or more than 50 points a game.

Northwestern lost its second game in four warm-up starts, bowing to Notre Dame 30 to 27. The Irish staved off a Wildcat rally to win. Chicago's Maroons defeated Armour Tech 45 to 32 as Iowa was downing Butler 36 to 31. Marquette made it two in a row over Wisconsin this season, defeating the Badgers 38 to 32 before 6,300 fans, while Illinois, co-champions with Minnesota last season, made a successful eastern debut by defeating St. Johns of New York 60 to 45 in Madison Square Garden.

Thirteen more tune-up games are scheduled for Big Ten teams this week. Tonight, in addition to the Purdue-Loyola battle, Iowa plays Xavier at Cincinnati, Michigan goes against Dartmouth at White Plains, N. Y., Illinois plays Temple at Philadelphia, and Minnesota entertains Nebraska.

Tuesday: Indiana at Bradley Tech, Peoria, Ill.; Iowa at Toledo; Michigan at Rochester university. Wednesday: Wheaton at Chicago; Iowa at Michigan State and Purdue at Denver; Thursday: Indiana at Nebraska and Northwestern at Butler.

be honor guest at a banquet tonight.

In the words of George Barber, secretary of the board of city development, said:

"We've adopted a new slogan for the city of Sweetwater—'Home of the world champion, pass slinging Sammy Baugh.'"

National League Fielding Marks Give Medwick Honor

St. Louis Star Hailed As Baseball's No. 1 Picket With Gabby Hartnett Holding Second Place

By SID FEDER
NEW YORK, Dec. 20.—The National league announced its official fielding averages for 1937 today, and that Medwick man is in again.

It wasn't enough that Ducky Wukky (of the St. Louis Cardinal and Carteret, N. J. Medwicks) collected just about every offensive title for slaughtering pitchers with his big bat. He was the loops' championship fielding outfielder for the year, as well.

With his offensive and defensive sweep, Ducky headed a quartet of pretty handy guys to have around last season. Each swung a wicked war club to finish among the first six batters in the league, and each was tops at his position afield.

Not far behind Medwick was Gabby Hartnett of the Cubs, who wound up third in the batting race, and for the fifth straight year topped the league's catching regulars in fielding. Then there was the loops No. 1 comeback, Pinky Whitney, who hit 341 and was the finest fielding third-sacker. And finally, there was Pinky's Phillies team, Dolf Camilli, who added the first baseman's defensive title to his 339 batting average.

Medwick handled 342 chances in 156 games and committed only four errors, for an average of 98.83. At that, he wasn't far in front of his closest fly-chasing rivals, Lloyd Waner of the Pirates, with a 9676 average, and Terry Moore of the Cards, with 9675.

Melvin Ott, the Giants' young-old man, might have eclipsed any of the three if he'd played the requisite 100 games in the outfield. During his term of picket duty he fielded a perfect 1,000, but the Giants switched him to third base after 91 games.

At the hot corner, the figures indicate Mel wasn't altogether a huge success. His 939 mark in 60 games was among the lowest in the league, while Whitney, after appearing about as often in 1936, banded back to the top of the big-time with a .982 mark in 130 games, committing only seven errors in handling 381 chances. His nearest rival among the 100-game regulars was sprinter Don Guttridge of the Cards, four points behind.

For Hartnett, who gave Medwick a red-hot fight for the most valuable player award, the fielding averages just add further evidence to the already accepted contention that he has no peer behind the plate in the senior circuit. Gabby handled 503 chances and was charged with just two errors for a .996 fielding average.

The Methodists rolled to an easy 23 to 8 triumph over the Trojans, remained undefeated in the Class C Basketball league today after gaining second victories at the Memorial building Saturday afternoon.

The Junior Trojans, who won their first start of the season the week before, did not play last Saturday and consequently remained in the unbeaten list.

Breezy Briefs Of Sport From Brietz To You

By EDDIE BRIETZ

NEW YORK, Dec. 20.—What has happened to those plans to send Dan W. Hill, live wire president of the Piedmont league, to an executive job in the Southern association? Jack Dempsey has leased the newsreel theater site just off W. 49th st. for his Broadway bar.

Fort Worth sports writers are steaming because a Dallas paper left Davey O'Brien, Texas Christian backfield ace, off its all south-west conference team.

Attention, girls: Al Schacht, the baseball clown, wants a secretary for his 1938 minor league tour... on their way to San Francisco to play in the East-West game, Andy Bershak, North Carolina end, and Elmore Hackney, Duke back, stopped off to visit Kay Kyster, the band leader, whose crew is playing in a Chicago spot.

Keyser is a North Carolina alumnus... old Jack Johnson appeared in Harry Balsamo's corner in the Garden the other night wearing pearl gray spats.

Add "recession" notes: The New York Hockey Rangers are $28,000 ahead of last year in receipts and have hit an all-time attendance high for games played so far.

Harold Conrad, former Brooklyn Eagle sports writer, has gone to Chicago to publicize the Sonja Henie ice show... Lou Diamond, who has been promoting fights in Tampa and Philadelphia, will try Rochester next... Joe Louis has made Max Schmeling agree not to meet five fighters prior to next June... they are the two Baers, Bob Pastor, Tommy Farr and James J. Braddock.

Jackie Reid, 45-year-old pitching star of the Fort Worth Cats is keeping in shape throwing rocks at the goats on his farm down in Texas... if Max Schmeling isn't the next heavyweight champion of the world, Buddy Baer is as good a bet as any... this isn't news any more: the baseball season is three months away, but Cincinnati is sold out for the opening game... only 25 Notre Dame players received football monograms this year—the smallest group since 1928... seems the gent who was making Bernie Bierman all those Sewanee minus portfolio.

Damascus All-Stars Face Faculty Quint

DAMASCUS, Dec. 20.—The Damascus All-Stars will meet Goshen High school's faculty basketball team at 8 tomorrow night at the Goshen High gym.

Don Slagle, former Salem High court star, and Ralph Geist, former Berlin Center cager, are expected to play with the All-Stars. Other members of the All-Star team are Bob Cameron, Dick Beltler, Chet Fryogle and Lee Mercer of Damascus.

COLUMBUS — Albert Donahue was pretty peeved when he reported to police that his automobile had been stolen from his garage.

He felt much better when he came back to tell that the car had been recovered, and not just because he had his car again, either.

The thief had "paid" for the use of the car by filling the gasoline tank.

"Overall" College Trains Future Farm Leaders

Dean V. E. Kivlin confers with students

One of the most unusual educational projects in United States is now in the midst of its sixth and best season, the Farm Folk school at University of Wisconsin. This branch of the state institution is devoted to training young farmers to be the agricultural leaders of the future. It operates for four months, from November to March, and enables those in Wisconsin rural districts to obtain advanced training in various fields at a term cost of only $97, including board, room and tuition. Modeled on the folk schools of Denmark, it is headed by Dean V. E. Kivlin and has an enrollment of more than 300 students, some of whom have only been to grade school, others college men.

College Crews May Race On Ohio River

MARIETTA, Dec. 20.—Athletic officials of Marietta college sought leading national rowing crews today as entrants in an Ohio river regatta to be raced in July as part of the Northwest Territory celebration.

Athletic Director F. L. (Duke) Hayes said he was assured that Rutgers, Pennsylvania, Cornell, Syracuse and Harvard crews would participate July 2. He said he expected the World Champion Washington Huskies and Wisconsin and California to accept invitations.

Crew Coach Ellis (Hooster) MacDonald added that Navy was another possible entrant. He estimated that $30,000 to $35,000 would be necessary to underwrite the regatta.

CHARDON — William J. Goodfield, a farmer, suffered personal injuries and damages to his automobile in an accident. He asked $3,000 damages in common pleas court. But the jury awarded him $1, which he donated to the Red Cross.

DODGE DOES IT AGAIN!

Dodge proves its stamina to stand up under all conditions in the "Dodge Alaska-to-New York Truck Trip." Traveling across country through storms, on wet clay roads and squeezing its way past rock slides across the road, and bringing its load safely to New York, is proof that Dodge can stand up under all conditions. See your Dodge car or truck at the Althouse Motor Co., today for the stamina that wins.

Isaac Gennett, the Jewish war veteran from Bronx, N. Y., who aroused a controversy on Armistice Day when he placed a wreath on the tomb of the German unknown soldier in Berlin, is pictured above on his return to America aboard the Washington. # "Beauty's A Charm" by HARRIET HINSDALE

CHAPTER XXXII

Lucy Lee leaned her head against Clyde, feeling the powerful play of muscles as he turned the car into another street. How glorious it was going to be, always to have Clyde's strong arm to lean against like this, she thought, and forget all else. They were silent for the rest of the way, wrapped in close communion of mind and spirit, for each was thinking: "Next week."

The house which their hostess rented furnished from a featured actress who had been "free lancing" for a year and could not afford to keep the place up any longer, was set back from the street by a hedge, a close-clipped hedge, quite good and secluded. As Clyde and Lucy Lee approached the door she wondered rather nervously just how Shirley Moore, as she must now call "Miss Parisian Toilettes," had flown into a rage over losing the crown to Lucy Lee. Odd, that they should be meeting again like this, here in Hollywood.

"Why, Lucy Lee darling—I simply can't tell you how glad I am you came. And of course Clyde too." The former Gussie Gerneheimer held out a bejeweled hand to each of them, in the most approved moviesque society-hostess manner. Then making a gesture of kissing Lucy Lee's cheek she held her off a little, eyes wide with admiration. "And looking more gorgeous than ever." She turned to Clyde with a ravishing smile. "Lucky boy! Have you heard the latest about the man who married the picture actress?"

Clyde flushed and someone in the room cried: "No, spring it, Shirley, I'll bet. What about the mug who married the picture actress?"

"His friend said: I hear you were married one day last week?" And the man said: "As a matter of fact, it was two days."

Somebody guffawed.

"I'm awfully peeved at a friend of yours, Lucy Lee," Shirley went on. "Don't you know I invited him to my party he said he had to go to a stag affair given by some agent for the publicity men. Can you feature turning me down for one of those disgusting stag affairs? But there are a couple of old pals of yours here."

She put her arm about Lucy Lee and piloted her into the next room. "Adrienne Page and Neville Preston. Always together," she whispered. "Just another one of those Hollywood engagements—you know, the kind that mean everything—except marriage."

Lucy Lee would have turned and fled if she could, but there was nothing for it but to go on. Neville and Pearl were sitting in a shadowy corner and as they approached he rose with his usual charming manner. "If it isn't our little Lucy Lee. How are you? And the lucky chap who has won her. Congratulations, old man."

Pearl smiled upon Lucy Lee. Beautifully gowned, perfectly coiffured and discreetly jeweled, her poise and appearance were flawless. It was as if she had been magically melted and poured into a new and triumphant mold.

"I always told you Clyde would be famous some day, didn't I, dear?" She turned to him and placed a hand on his arm. "Clever boy! How is that wonderful Bruce Loring? They say you're marvelous in the picture. Especially that hot love scene with Shirley here. Naughty... naughty... eh, Shirley?"

"If that's the way you're going to talk, Clyde and I are starting right away from here, aren't we, Clyde? No place for us, I can see that. You're putting ideas in our innocent minds." Laughingly she then disappeared through the sun-room toward the patio beyond.

Pearl laughed and in her hard blue eyes Lucy Lee saw the Pearl of other days. "Better marry him soon, Lucy Lee," she drawled, "before dear Gussie gets him away from you. Clyde is just damn fool enough to fall for her line. And she certainly seems to be going after him in a big way."

Lucy Lee did not answer. She could not. Words would have choked her. She only stared miserably at the two who had gone out together. As soon as she could she slipped away from Pearl and Neville.

When Don Ames had told Shirley Moore that he couldn't come to her party because he had promised a man to attend his, he was stating only the simple truth.

One of the more prominent of the Hollywood theatrical agents felt the urge to stage a festive evening for men only, feminine participation being limited to the appearance of several scantily clad dancers and entertainers. Most of the men who had received invitations to the affair went because, to their simple minds it seemed "good business." Each hoped to "hook up with some guy who might throw something my way." You never could tell.

But for Ames it proved to be a boring and profitless affair. Soon after dinner he decided to quit the party. Why not finish the evening at Shirley's bawls? In five minutes he was on his merry way.

Shirley's party had progressed through early stages of innocuous boredom, when everyone talked and behaved with the usual inhibitions of polite society, to that much more exciting and natural state of alcoholic stimulation when to be oneself was raucously applauded. Shirley had most considerably disappeared from the scene, leaving her guests to their own devices and the apparently inexhaustible supply of liquor and food.

Lucy Lee had wanted to leave the place long since, but naturally could not depart without Clyde, and she had not laid eyes on him for an hour. Thinking to get her wrap and be ready to go as soon as he should appear, she went into the downstairs bedroom where the feminine guests had left their things when they arrived. Lying across the broad, low bed with its elaborate brocade cover was Pearl, one hand clutching a velvet wrap which trailed its befringed richness on the floor. She was fast asleep, having evidently sat down for a moment to recover herself and fallen sideways in not-to-be-resisted slumber, amidst a small fortune in ermines and chinchillas.

Snatching up her own cloak, Lucy Lee hurried out. In the wide balcony hallway she met Neville Preston pacing up and down impatiently, cigarette in hand. She would have passed him without speaking but he stopped her with a deprecating gesture.

"Don't run away like that, Lucy Lee. You make me feel like a leper or something. Have you seen Pearl? I've been waiting for her fully ten minutes and she just popped in to get her things."

"Pearl is in there—asleep."

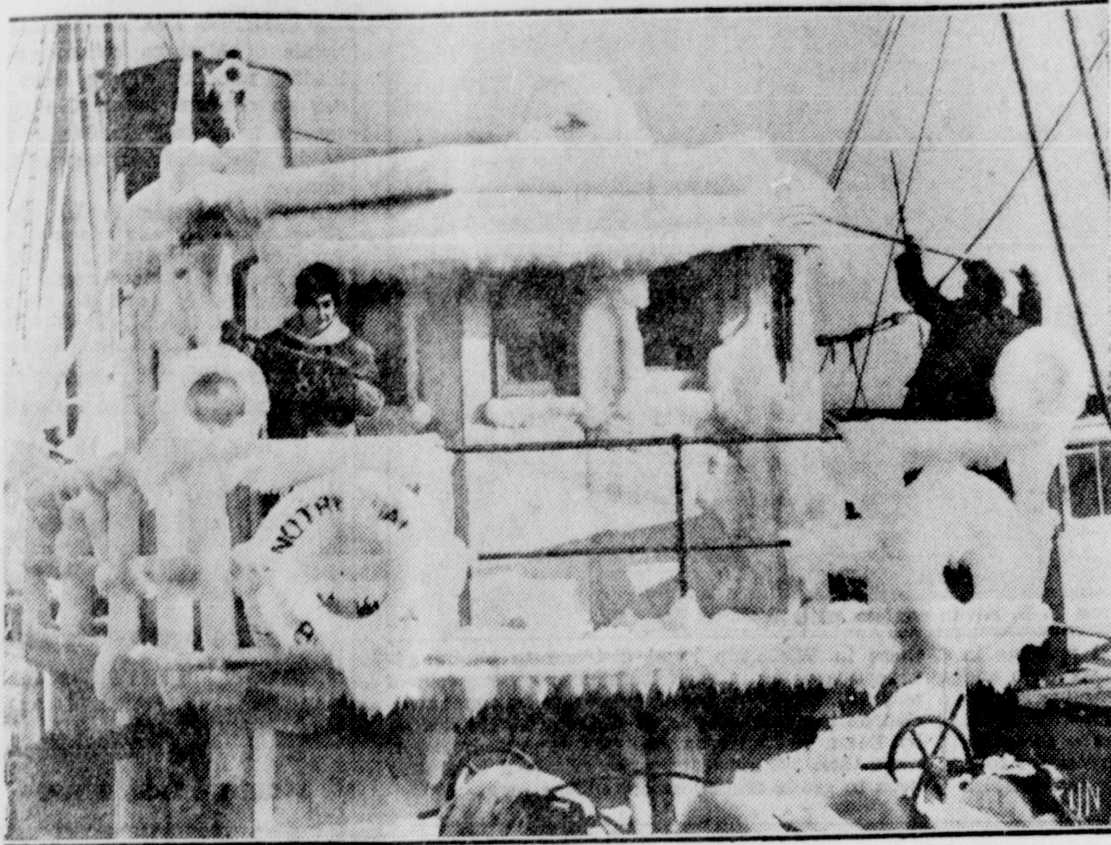

"Good! Maybe when she comes to she won't be in such a vile temper. God! What a disposition." He moved closer, dropped his voice. "Let's find some place... I want to talk to you, Lucy Lee."

"I really don't think there is anything for us to say to each other," she replied quietly. "Besides, I'm going home as soon as I can find Clyde."

"Let me help you locate him," Preston answered. "He is probably out in the garden somewhere. Shall we look?"

He took her arm and led her out through the open French doors to the patio beyond which lay the extensive gardens, shadowy with trees and shrubs. They walked slowly along the gravelled paths. Somewhere in the darkness there was a fountain tinkling. Of a sudden Lucy Lee didn't want to search any farther and she shivered slightly as she turned back toward the house again.

Those Yankee Sailors Are a Hardy Lot

The trawler Notre Dame is pictured above as she arrived in Boston Harbor from the fishing banks—a gray ghost steaming in from the sea. Sub-zero weather at the banks caused the superstructure of the vessel to appear as above when flying spray froze to the rigging.

"I—I think I would rather wait inside."

"Please Lucy Lee. Give me just a minute to explain. Here, you must have your wrap on." He placed it over her shoulders and with the gesture, held her closely clasped in his arms. Surprise kept her silent speechless for a moment. "I'm still mad about you, Beautiful," Preston whispered.

There was a stir in the darkness behind them and a man stepped out of the shadows into the half light where they stood. He swayed a little and put a hand on the sun dial to steady himself. It was Clyde, and Lucy Lee, released from Preston's embrace, came hurrying toward him. She laid a hand on his arm but he shook it off, swaying slightly and staring at her with a strange expression on his flushed face.
